

June 7, 2007

You've Gone Soft

They say there are two sides to every story.

But when it's obvious that your four-sided furniture is the cause of Baby McStandalot's latest bruises and bumps, your budding athlete doesn't need to say a word.

Time to get comfy with the Little Tumblers Table Topper. It's a washable, childproof safety cover made of soft fabric that's filled with padding and stretches across your entire coffee table. And the thing fits like a glove, so tiny hands can't pull it off.

The three ready-made sizes fit standard tables, or you can order a custom-made Topper for not much more dough. Meanwhile, unlike the vast majority of horribly ugly table bumpers, they're actually decor friendly: The discreet shades of chocolate brown, burgundy, and sage green keep everything uniform and sleek. So you'll never have to choose between your living room's form and baby's new functions.

Because you're really not one to take sides.

Available online at littletumblers.com.

TODAY IN EVERYWHERE
The Weekend Guide

Being a baby isn't easy. You don't read books (you eat them), and you have to keep a plug in your mouth to stop the whimpers. For siblings young and old, don't miss The New York Times bestselling, How To Be a Baby by Me, the Big Sister. Enter to win a free copy today!